Markets may change, but your values remain strong.
The Foundation is here for you.

The world may seem out of control. With volatile markets, rising geopolitical tension and the reverberations of the global pandemic, it's easy to feel overwhelmed. While markets may change, some things never will: your values, your commitment to your loved ones and your community — the big things that define your living legacy. The Pittsburgh Foundation can help you take control of your living legacy and make an impact now on the issues that matter most — while also maximizing your tax advantages.

Take control of your living legacy.

By giving appreciated securities instead of cash, you maximize your giving to nonprofits instead of paying capital gains tax. Consider a planned gift that makes the Foundation the beneficiary of some or all of your IRA, so you can give more while reducing tax burdens on your heirs. If you're 72 or older, you can use your IRA's required minimum distribution (RMD) to create a designated, field of interest or scholarship fund. If RMDs aren't required, consider giving from your DAF to support these issues.

A quick conversation can have lasting rewards.

Your donor services team can help you maximize the impact and benefits of your year-end charitable giving. Contact The Pittsburgh Foundation at 412.394.2653 or pittsburghfoundation.org. Reach The Community Foundation of Westmoreland County at 724.836.4400 or cfwestmoreland.org.

Arts and Culture

Artists cultivate individual and collective joy and are essential to the health and well-being of the community. Arts and culture also contribute to a thriving economy.

Find out how you can support artists and strengthen a diverse, healthy and just arts ecosystem.

Basic Needs

Now more than ever, low-income individuals and families need assistance with food, shelter, physical and mental health, child care, education and employment.

Discover how you can strengthen the region's safety net and support our neighbors in need.

Economic Mobility

For too long, federal policies have placed career advancement, home ownership, entrepreneurship, and college access/completion out of reach for communities of color. Learn more about giving to organizations stepping up and advocating so that Black communities can move from surviving to thriving.

Learn how you can give to support organizations creating economic security and opportunity.

Environmental Action

Many neighborhoods have been subjected to pollution leading to poor air and water quality, which affects the health of adults, seniors and children, particularly in Black and Brown communities.

Find out how you can give to support advocacy for a clean and safe environment for everyone.

Equity and Racial Justice

Black, Indigenous and People of Color (BIPOC) communities in Allegheny County face systemic inequities in every area of life from education to criminal justice to public health.

Ask how you can support organizations addressing the root causes of racial inequity and injustice.
